INDIANA STATE UNIVERSITY

The Scott College of Business at Indiana State offers 8 undergraduate degrees and 2 graduate programs.

We also contribute to a doctoral program in Technology Management with a concentration in Training and Development. We offer the unique perspective that everything is a business – whether healthcare, education, manufacturing...if it has customers, sells a product, provides a service, it's a business.

Our programs provide the versatility of a universal skill set that is in high demand and can be applied across numerous careers. There are more than 16,000 schools of business across the country, and only the top 5% are recognized by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), the gold standard, THE accreditation. We are proud to be in this 5%.

This organization evaluates our curriculum and our faculty, ensuring we are providing quality business education and producing career-ready graduates.

We cater to employers through our Preferred Partners Program, offering a 15% break on tuition for all employees.

Let us help you further develop your employees either through a degree completion program for those who have some college or expanding into graduate education.
